1. R. Shewell's new play, "The Step-daughter," had its first presentation in Brooking hast night at Col. Holmes's Star Theatre by Annie Ward Tilfany and ner company. The place is strong in dramatic interest, and received a very flattering reception from a nouse filled to the doors. As Fragy Logan, the faithful first nurse, Annie Ward Tilfany has a part well subject to ber, and her work was liberally.
